

Data Health Check

Understand Your Data's Health.
No Disruption. No Risk.

Four weeks. One CSV. A clear picture of where your data stands — and where it needs to go.

What We Need From You

We built this to be as lightweight as possible. Here's the full ask.

One Data Export.

A single CSV file from whatever platform holds most of your campaign data. No cleanup required.

A Short Conversation.

Tell us what good looks like for your team — your naming conventions, required fields, and channel taxonomy.

(30–60 minutes, total.)

Minimal Time.

Your total time commitment across all four weeks is under three hours. The rest is on us.

The 4-Week Timeline

Weeks 1–2: Intake & Analysis.

You share your CSV export and walk us through your basic data standards. We take it from there and begin validating your data against those standards — completely offline.

Week 3: Review & Refine.

We hold a 30–60 minute working session together to review initial findings, answer questions, and clarify any data rules we want to measure against.

Week 4: Final Readout.

You receive a final report showing compliance rates, specific issue areas, and a clear starting point — not a sales pitch, just the truth about your data.

What We Will Never Do

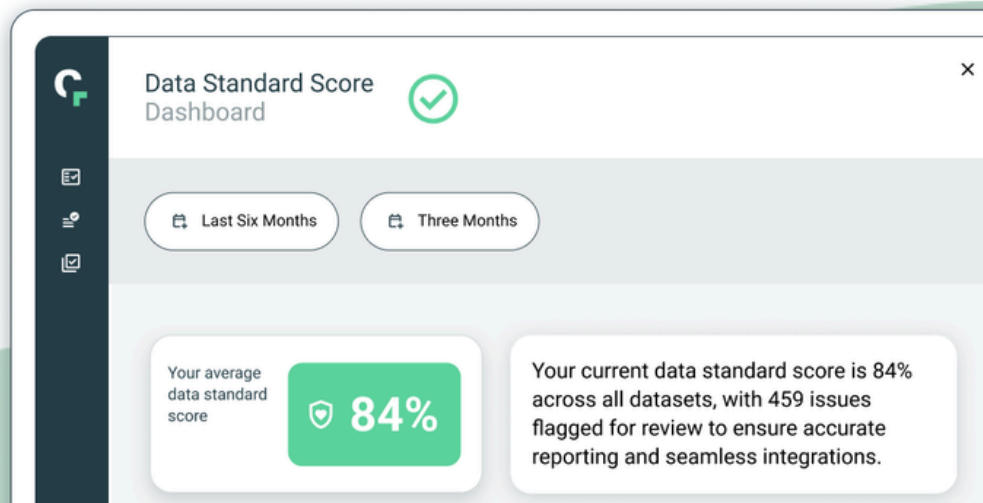

We know sharing data can feel uncomfortable. This process is about understanding, not judgment – and we want to be specific about what we don't touch.

No live link activity. We don't click UTMs, test live links, or interact with anything in your active campaigns.

No modifications. We don't alter, inject into, or overwrite your data in any way. What you send us stays exactly as-is.

No system integrations. No technical setup, no API connections, no access to your platforms. A CSV is all we need.

No data retention. We don't store, reuse, or share your data. This is a read-only diagnostic – handled securely and discarded after the engagement.

Are you ready to look under the bed?

It's probably not as scary as you think.

Learn More Here:
www.claravine.com

Book an Intro to Start:
www.claravine.com/learn-more-now/

